Located in the traditional inland town of Alguena, this fascinating property combines a substantial traditional house with the original cave dwellings, a private swimming pool, large garage and separate guest casita. Set on approximately 1,100 m², the property offers around 350 m² of total built space, including a 232 m² main house. Built in 1900, this is certainly not a standard Spanish property. The unusual layout, generous proportions and central location give it enormous potential for someone looking for a home with character and the opportunity to create something genuinely individual. The main house begins with a light and bright open-plan lounge and dining area at...(Ask for More Details!)
