The natural beauty of the Airen Collection's surroundings required an architecture that would preserve and enhance it. From the color of its facade to its open distribution to the exterior and the presence of native vegetation, everything has been selected to maintain its essence. Airen Collection offers sustainable homes with bioclimatic architecture and facilities to generate low energy consumption. Green roofs, installation of photovoltaic panels, electric car charging points, xeriscaping, installation of tanks for collecting rainwater, aerothermal system for heating and hot water production are some of the elements that make these homes unique. Airen B is one of the housing concepts available. With a cozy interior where...(Ask for More Details!)
